Dear PSC,

It is important to all of us that support the Lexington Fayette Urban County Government's efforts to purchase the water company that our most informed citizens' group, Bluegrass FLOW, be allowed to augment the government attorneys' representation for those of us that cannot personally attend the PSC sessions on this vital issue. I do not believe my interests will be fully represented by the strictly legal interpretations of the Attorney General and/or the LFUCG attorneys.

Please allow FLOW into case # 2004-00103. FLOW is separate from the Attorney General and the county government.

I strongly believe in local ownership of the water company. Long term benefits are substantial. There is a reason that 95% of communities our size own their water utility.

Dear commission members,

I am disgusted with the tactics of RWE in opposing the public's right to have a city-owned water company. Everyone with knowledge of American history knows that municipally owned water companies reflect an established civic tradition in the U.S. At a time when there is a global water crisis that includes a variety of U.S. versions, Lexington's mayor and council are simply reasserting the relevance of this important tradition and policy approach. Bluegrass Flow should be allowed to participate in case 2004-00103. Among other things, it will lessen the role of propaganda in an important public decision-making process by making sure RWE is not left in control of the "hen house."

Hi,

Please let FLOW view document 2004-00103, as a member of the Lexington community I think it is vital to own the water company. Water will be scarce in the future and we need to protect our water supply now.

Thank you,
